

App Store With Two More Apps On The House

Once again I bring to you two fun iPhone game applications. And these two apps are a little different from the war games in which an animated Hero has to fight against many evil enemies or the cops and Robbers iPhone game in which you go on a stealing spree. And surprisingly the more you steal and without being caught by a police, the better score you make. (I am sure everyone reading this is wishing if this could happen in actual life where you are rewarded for flicking things :))

No, this time I bring to you a puzzle sort of iPhone game app and a jumping game. In Topple (the puzzle game) there are stacks to be lined up straight one above the other. The higher the stack is, the more your scores are. And you move to a higher level. The graphics of the game are really nice and also adds to the fun in the game.

In SpringFling, all the player of the game have to do is to jump. Yup, the higher you jump, the more your score is. therefore, more fun. The game has many stages and according to your score you get to reach higher levels. Another nice property of the game is the challenge you friend option via twitter and facebook. Which means you can share the game on twitter and facebook. I haven't challenged anyone yet; I don't really manage to reach higher levels. Actually, I can't make it to beyond level 2. So will have to wait for some more time before I can challenge someone.

SpringFling is for $0.99 and Topple is free of cost. So guys, go download the apps for your iPhones and have loads of fun playing till I bring you more reviews of new iPhone game applications. The Apple App store has thousands of game apps; I certainly will find a few more interesting game apps for you all.

About the Author

I am George Keller and I am a big fan of iPhones and all others gadgets. To keep myself updated on new gadgets and their reviews, I follow Onlygizmos.com.

Source: <http://www.secondarticle.com>